PORT ARTHUR, TEXAS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1934

DETECTIVE HARRIS RETAINED WHEN LOGAN AND WILEY SPLIT ON VOICE

OIL REFINERIES PAY BIGGER TAX

Both Gulf and Texas Company Will Pay More

VALUATION HIGHER
Refineries Pay 68 1-2% Of School Tax

An increase in valuations throughout the Port Arthur independent school district amounting to nearly 13 per cent over the 1922 valuations is announced today by L. B. Abbey, secretary of the school board.

This increase raises the 1923 valuation to $75,000,000, against $65,000,000 in 1922, with a corresponding increase in the school district income raised by taxation from $315,000 in 1922 to $370,000 in 1923, Abbey said.

Following the increase in valuations this year over last, the Gulf company will pay 34 1-2 per cent of the 1923 school taxes; the Texas Company 34 per cent, and the balance of the district 31 1-2 per cent, the secretary of the school board pointed out.

Valuations Raised.
Rumors that a reduction in valuations placed on the refineries' properties had been ordered by the school board were denied. On the contrary, their valuations have been increased, he said, as follows: The Gulf company's 17 1-2 per cent over 1922; the Texas Company's 14 per cent; and the balance of the district 5 per cent.

It is further recalled in the report of the school board's secretary that 1922 valuations in the district were increased nearly 13 per cent over the 1921 valuations. During that period, 1921 and 1922, the Gulf's valuations increased 15 per cent; the Texas Company's 6 per cent, and the balance of the district 17 1-2 per cent, the report set forth.

Cost Per Student.
Despite the increasing demands made upon the Port Arthur schools as the scholastic population grows, resulting in additions to the faculty and corps of instructors, the 1922-23 per capita costs shows an increase of only 5 cents over the 1921-22 per capita costs, Abbey said. During the session ended June 1, 1923, the per capita cost was $30.74, against $29.65 cents for 1921-22, he said.

Port Arthur schools will receive $30,216 from the state this year, according to Abbey. This is based upon an allowance of $12 per student, and despite the increase of 1923 in scholastic population of Port Arthur, figured last March, this year's income from the state will be $7518 less than in 1922, because the state apportionment to Port Arthur is cut this year to $12 from $13 per child, it is said.

1923 Income.
With the $30,216 to be received from the state, the 1923 income of the school district here will total $450,216, Abbey said.

The tax rolls for 1923 have been prepared in the office of Secretary Abbey, at the Webster school building, Seventh street and Shreveport avenue, and the collector's books will be turned out by 1:30 p. m. today.

K'S TAKE OVER A UNIVERSITY

Valparaiso Is To Be Built

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 16.—The Ku Klux Klan will take over Valparaiso University, known as "The Poor Man's Harvard," and spend $500,000 immediately in its development, it was announced here today.

Milton Elrod, Indianapolis, and O. C. Watkins, Columbus, left for Valparaiso today to complete negotiations.

The Klan will pay $350,000 outright for the institution and besides spending the half million for development will also raise a half million endowment fund, Klan officials said.

Mrs. Dunn had been married several months, but separated from her husband about a week ago and came to Beaumont, relatives of the dead woman said.

GRAIN ELEVATOR

Foundation Tests Are Satisfactory to K. C. S.

Satisfaction over the results of the foundation tests for the additional grain elevator planned by the Kansas City Southern railroad for construction in Port Arthur was expressed today by G. P. Williams, assistant to the president of the K. C. S.

Test pilings for the elevator addition to a 1,000,000 bushel capacity, were driven recently on the site for the proposed structure and Williams said that so far as he knew the findings were entirely satisfactory.

GIGANTIC RUM RING IS FOUND

35 Prominent Citizens Held By Police

BANKER AMONG THEM

Federal Agents Pull Off Biggest Deal

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 16.—Thirty-five residents of Savannah, including leaders in business and professional life, were under arrest today in the roundup of an alleged gigantic ring of prohibition law violators. Thirty others, indicted by a federal grand jury, were sought by officials in connection with the liquor deals.

Members of the alleged ring were accused of conspiracy to import and distribute thousands of gallons of liquor.

Banker Held.
Seventy-five federal agents, working in this territory for several months, gathered evidence on which the indictments were based. Heading the list of those arrested was John Powers, vice president and cashier of the Exchange bank.

Details of the gigantic organization, extending over southern eastern and central portions of the country, were placed before the grand jury.

Liquor Shipped.
Federal agents charged the liquor was shipped into the country in lots of 500 or more cases; sent to storage houses over a wide area for distribution, with police protection.

The grand jury continued its probe today and many additional indictments were expected. Leaders of the raiding squads said their work had just begun.

Man Is Killed

DALLAS, Aug. 16.—A man identified as T. F. Neale, 77, was instantly killed late yesterday when he was struck by a Houston and Texas Central railroad train near Hutchins. Neale was crossing a bridge when hit by the train.

Witnesses Tell Treatment Given To R. D. Brown

City Attorney Rules Charter Provides Police-men Can Be Fined Only By Majority of City Commission.

Officer B. A. Harris will be retained on the Port Arthur police force.

This was the outcome of the public hearing given the city detective this morning in commission, when, following a secret ballot by Mayor Logan and Commissioner B. H. Wiley, it was announced by City Secretary E. H. Miles that one ballot had been cast for his dismissal and one for his detention.

"It is my version of the city charter," Attorney Fred White, who participated in the hearing, declared after the large crowd of citizens who surged into the small commission room.

Attorney White read to newspaper men from article two, chapter one, section eight, of the charter, which declares that no officer can be removed from the city's employ except through a majority vote of the city commission.

"The object of the communication mailed the officer by the commission several days ago," White asserted, "was a kind of preliminary step in procedure; he was mailed a letter at the same time granting him the right of public hearing; the letter discharging him took effect unless he claimed the right of a hearing, and the result of the hearing bears procedure over the communication discharging him."

The hearing, which began at 11 o'clock, continued until 12:30 p. m., and was listened to attentively by the large crowd. Officer McAfee was the first witness called by Mayor Logan.

The Testimony in Full

The identification officer was asked by Attorney White.

THORP: "Yes."

WHITE: "Did you help bring him in?"

THORP: "I drove the patrol wagon."

WHITE: "Just tell what happened, Mr. Thorp, when you got to the jail."

THORP: "When we got to the jail, Harris told me to take the shotgun and examine it."

WHITE: "Did you examine it?"

THORP: "Yes, sir, it had shells in it. I asked Harris where he got it, and he said he took it off of Brown, telling me that 'Brown had it to kill me with.' I came back in the hall after the trouble in the cell which I never saw, and Harris told me Brown reared up on him in the cell. Some one told me to get Dr. Hiedoe."

LOGAN: "Was an effort made to get a doctor immediately, Mr. Thorp?"

THORP: "Yes, sir, but the first attempt failed, and then we got the wrong doctor on the phone."

LOGAN: "How long before you got a physician?"

THORP: "I presume about an hour."

LOGAN: "That was no fault of Mr. Sheppard's, was it?"

THORP: "No."

WHITE: "You didn't see any of the trouble that occurred between Brown and Harris, did you Mr. Thorp?"

THORP: "No."

LOGAN: "Did you hear Brown causing any disturbance, or showing any disposition to be boisterous either at the desk in the station or in the patrol wagon?"

THORP: "No, sir."

WHITE: "Did you hear him causing any disturbance in the patrol?"

THORP: "No, sir. He was back in the rear of the patrol, and I didn't hear him creating any disturbance at all."

Following the statements of Identification Expert Thorpe, Detective McAfee was recalled to the stand.

LOGAN: "Were you asked to help Harris lock up Brown?"

McAfee: "No."

LOGAN: "Would you, had you been asked?"

McAfee: "Certainly."

Dr. White, who was called in to testify concerning the treatment given Brown in the city jail, declared he had found several bad wounds on the then prisoner.

"I was called to see Brown at the station," Dr. White testified, "and I found several lacerations on top of his head, one under his left eye, some on his back and arms."

LOGAN: "How many wounds did you find on his arm, Dr. White?"

DR. WHITE: "I found several on his arm which looked like a series of wounds."

LOGAN: "Did you notice any bruises on his back?"

DR. WHITE: "Yes, sir."

LOGAN: "In your opinion, could they have been caused by a man's fist?"

DR. WHITE: "They could have, but the blow would have had to have been struck very hard."

LOGAN: "Could any of the wounds in your opinion have caused death?"

DR. WHITE: "Well, the one on his head, a little harder, might have crushed the skull and caused concussion of the brain, and the one on his stomach might have caused a serious rupture."

ATTORNEY WHITE: "Could any of those blows have been caused by a fist, Dr. White?"

DR. WHITE: "Yes, they possibly could have been."

ATTORNEY WHITE: "Was there any danger of a man dying from those blows?"

ONE ATTACK KLAN MEMBERS

One Near Dead and 50 Hurt in Shooting

KLAN WON ELECTION

Four Candidates Put Over by Order

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 16.—One man is near death and fifty are injured as a result of a spectacular battle in the streets of Steubenville last night between 3,000 citizens and 100 members of the Ku Klux Klan.

The fighting is said to have been an outgrowth of Tuesday's primary election in which four Klan candidates were successful.

Most Attacks Them.
The mob of citizens attacked the klansmen as they were coming out of a meeting hall shortly before midnight.

Darwin L. Gibson, said to have been watching the melee, was shot and is expected to live.

The klansmen carried a air when they drove into town from Weir, West Virginia. They were in a caravan of 25 automobiles and carried illuminated crosses.

Crowd Gathered.
The procession went direct to the Klan meeting place. A crowd soon gathered outside the hall and began heckling the klansmen as they came out.

The clash followed. Several members of the mob were said to have had firearms but they were armed largely with stones and clubs.

Police succeeded in rounding up the klansmen and escorting most of them across the river into West Virginia.

A few members were forced to stay behind because of injuries.

Two men are held in connection with the shooting. Police said they were armed.

POLICE PROBE ATTEMPT TO SET HOUSE AFIRE

Police Thoroughly investigating the alleged attempt to set fire to the house of Bob McNulty, negro, 1024 Texas street.

McNulty came home last night to find a smoldering smudge on his back porch where boxes and rubbish soaked with kerosene had been piled. The job was bungled when the place failed to take fire.

According to McNulty he has no enemies and cannot account for the origin of the fire.

GASOLINE IN OHIO SELLS FOR 20 1-2C

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16.—Gas sold for 20 1-2 cents a gallon at virtually every filling station in Ohio today as independents followed the lead of the Standard Oil company in price reductions. The break of 1 1-2 cents a gallon was the first in Ohio since the midwestern gasoline war began.

MEN'S $30,000,000 DREAM APPROACHES REALITY; PLAN TO UNITE ART AND INDUSTRY IN MANY CITIES

Aug. 16.—Miss Rita Reen is the woman with the dream.

"It is a dream of 18 years ago," she says. "I have fought to make it come true."

It is a dream of that gigantic sum in cash, but of an idea which unites art and industry in a mammoth plan in Washington, the grounds and construction of which will cost $30,000,000 or more, to be known as the National Art Center.

Designed as a subsidiary to the Washington center is a plan in other cities throughout the country. Buffalo is the first actively working to carry out this idea, Mayor Schwab having just invited Miss Reen to go there for a conference.

A letter from the late President Harding officially endorsing the idea is a prized possession of Miss Reen, who is president of the American Arts and Industries association.

President Coolidge will appoint a commission to consider the proposal officially, under a bill already passed by the senate, and which has been approved by the house committee on public buildings and grounds and scheduled for vote at the next session.

Miss Reen, visualist and realist, art critic and industrialist, sees the National Art Center as a "world court of art and trade."

"It will be a clearing house for taste and enterprise," she says. "Profits will not be sought. The building in Washington—containing the American Art Salon, fundamental source of all the plans—will include workrooms for artists, inventors, designers and craftsmen, with the purpose of financing, developing and marketing unrecognized genius."

"Also it will be the exhibition center to which merchants and manufacturers will come for new and original world products, instead of having to send agents to scour the corners of the world."

Congress has not made an appropriation for the building, but Miss Reen—who has lived to see her dream approved by the art and commercial and political powers—has arranged the funding of the project, as a gift to the people, through co-operative channels.

"Uniting art and commerce," she says, "will be economical efficiency for the public and the individual."

MISS RITA REEN

GIANT TEMPLE IN WASHINGTON

This is the dream of one woman—Miss Rita Reen, president of the American Arts and Industries association—a National Art Center now materialized in architect's plans by Carlos Courtenay and George Trefant-Gillette, of Columbia University.

A building 900 feet long, and 400 feet wide at the center; galleries and exhibition halls, in the wings 250x150; entrance hall, 120x150; 100 massive piers flanked by majestic figures symbolizing world arts and industries; four towers 400 feet high. Towers of Art, of Industry, of Administration, of Service; research and testing laboratories, workrooms, meeting rooms for critics and experts, music conservatory, theatre, auditorium, banquet hall, and roof gardens for fete and pageants.

"It will be a place of service for the people," says Miss Reen. "For the merchant, manufacturer, inventor, artist, miner, farmer—every one will benefit directly or indirectly by the wedding of Art and Industry."

GEM DEPOSITS ARE LOCATED

American Makes Big Discovery

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 16.—The diamond deposits in Brazil are more widely scattered than in any other country where diamonds are to be found," said Dr. Oliver C. Farrington, curator of geology of the field museum of Natural History of Chicago.

Dr. Farrington has carried on his research work in the Brazilian mineral districts for some years. He is now planning a trip through the state of Bahia, in the north central part of Brazil, in order to look into certain diamond deposits in that state which have as yet received little attention from experienced geologists.

"The peculiar thing about the diamond deposits in this country," continued the geologist, "is the absence of the sedimentary magnesian rock which in most cases accompanies the diamonds in their natural state in other countries. The diamond mines of Minas Geraes, where especially those around Diamantina, are also free from any showing of this strata which has generally served as a guide to geologists and miners, in determining the localities where diamonds are to be found."

"The deposits of Diamantina are somewhat disappointing, and it is obvious that other deposits far richer than these already exploited, exist, but they are so widely scattered that it is only a matter of chance as to whether or not they will ever be found."

Dr. Farrington was reminiscent of his recent visit to the iron regions of Minas Geraes, where he found great hoards of iron in bold relief against the skyline.

When asked if he had seen any indications of oil strata during his jaunts through the interior he replied that he had not seen anything to lead him to believe that petroleum existed in the central part of Brazil.

EX-KAISER'S SON TURNS FARMER

Prince Eitel Follows Plow in Fields

By CARL D. GREGG
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
(Copyright in United States and Canada.)

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—Prince Eitel-Friedrich, the ex-kaiser's second son, has turned farmer.

He has obtained a small farm in connection with his Potsdam holdings and there daily may be seen following the plough or sowing seed from a sack bound round him, or performing other tasks of the ordinary farmer.

His farm work is partly intended to reduce a waist-line growing alarmingly large despite his youth—he is only 38. And it is partly due to the fact that the royal prince no longer has plenitude of gold which was his in the days when Germany was a monarchy.

Keeps His Uniform

Besides being farmer, the prince finds time to conduct the manifold affairs of the Hohenzollern house, its struggles to get a financial settlement with the new republic, and also from time to time put on the field-gray uniform for monarchist's meetings.

As a guest of many such celebrities, he fires the imaginations of those who look back to the days of Germany's military splendor.

Such circles like to think of him as soldier and officer, leading his troops, sword in hand, against the foe. He and the aged Hindenburg share honors on the occasions of monarchist reunions in the peaceful village of Potsdam, which has not yet learned that another day has dawned upon the fatherland.

The public hears from time to time that "Eitel-Fritz" and his wife, Princess Sophie Charlotte von Oldenburg, six years older than himself, are having marital difficulties. As a matter of fact, the wedding to the wealthy princess is neither happy nor unhappy; merely conventional.

The Other Sons

The other kaiser sons lead, for the most part, an even less eventful life than Eitel.

Prince Adalbert—the marine prince—and Prince Oskar, third and fourth sons of the emperor, have a life without much material care. Oskar lives in Potsdam with his wife, the Countess Ina von Hasekewitz, former court lady of the kaiserin, who received the title Countess of Ruppau as she was not of equal birth, and who after the revolution became Princess of Prussia.

Prince Adalbert lives in a beautiful villa in Homburg vor der Hoehe, near Frankfurt am Main. His wife was the wealthy heiress Princess Adelheid von Sachsen-Meinungen.

Prince August Wilhelm, the fifth son, sometimes called the civil prince, or within the family "Audi," is a victim of unrequited love. His extremely beautiful wife, the Princess Alexandra Victoria von Schleswig-Holstein, left him several years ago, divorced him three years ago and wedded Captain Lieutenant Ruman, with whom she now lives happily in Munich.

"Audi" has the title of Doctor of Social Science from the University of Strasbourg, and after the war, he tried his hand at business. He was no great success, so today he lives from the modest sum his father grants him plus the small state pension he obtains as lieutenant colonel.

The last of the kaiser's sons,

Prince Joachim, divorced by his wife, Princess Marie von Anhalt, ended his life in 1920 at Potsdam at the end of a spree which brought him home penniless.

The prince has led a mad career in the Bavarian resort town Berchtesgaden, though of late her escapades have rather dropped out of sight since she engaged herself to an alleged swindler, whose case is still pending in the courts.

In general, it may be said that the new freedom in Germany has been a blessing to the Hohenzollern princelings, for while they lack for some of the gold and luxuries of the pre-war time they nevertheless enjoy a freedom which was not theirs under the despotic family tyranny of the kaiser.

Evolution Gives Us Immortality Hope

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—"Evolution is the hope of the race, for it gives us strong proofs of immortality," declared Dr. Franklin Davis Barker, professor of zoology at the University of Nebraska, who is a member of the Northwestern university summer school faculty.

"Evolution is a fact as surely as gravitation. The comparative study of the nervous system of animals shows an evolution headward. Man's brain has freed him from the slavery of environment and is the physical basis of his personality and his soul."

"The observable trend 'brainward,' if projected, foretells the nature of the future super-man. That which has required millions of years to bring into being, will not be scrapped at death."

SOLID SOUTH HAS CANDIDATE

And It Also Wants the Big Convention

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—The "Solid South" is going to demand payment for the long years of loyal service to the democratic party.

The bill, now considered overdue by southern politicians, will be presented in the form of an invitation for the party to hold its next national convention in the southland and a request that the candidacy of Senator Oscar W. Underwood for the presidential nomination be endorsed.

Organized efforts are underway to back up the item regarding the national convention. Atlanta interests have solicited important personages in the party seeking support for its plan to hold the coming convention in Dixie. A number of party leaders have pledged their cooperation.

Atlanta, aside from the claim that it is a moral obligation of the democrats to meet in the south this year, will point out that it has ample quarters for the convention session adequate hotel arrangements and is equally as accessible as San Francisco.

Senator Underwood, in a virtual announcement of his candidacy, in a recent speech in Montgomery, Ala., sounded the keynote of the south's plea for endorsement of a "native son."

The time has come, Underwood declared, when the "Solid South" should ask of the democratic party that "a son of the Southland should once again bear the banner of democracy."

"I am sure that our brethren from the north are no longer considering as a vital question the strife from which the candidate falls; but their first thought is the principles for which he stands and their second the character of the candidate."

The south plans to use only moral coercion to secure payment of its bill, but it considers it has a legitimate claim and will press for payment.

MORENS STOLEN IN OHIO, CLAIM

Feeble-Minded Talker Was Mine Worker

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 16.—Charging that dozens of morons have been "stolen" from Ohio welfare institutions and subjected to "ritual slavery" in Pennsylvania coal mines, J. E. Harper, welfare director, has called upon C. S. Crabtree, attorney general of Ohio, to take legal steps to bring the guilty parties to justice.

Harper Saturday made public all his correspondence, enclosing a long investigation of the so-called peonage case revealed in mine of the Pittsburgh district last November.

In his letter demanding that the attorney general start criminal proceedings, Harper names several members of a large mining company from whose mines he says several wards of the welfare department were seized by authorities and returned to Ohio institutions.

"I am fully convinced that these boys were kidnaped from feeble minded institutions and subjected to ritual slavery and private gain," Harper told the attorney general.

Alleged statements by 13 morons of the conditions under which they were forced to work in the mines were given by Harper.

"They contain a pitiful story of boys working 20 hours at a stretch under the most unsanitary conditions. The statements agree that the food in the camp was only half cooked, that the boys often went as long as three months without a bath and that flag rings were common."

STANDARD CUTS PRICE OF GASOLINE IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 16.—The first break in gasoline prices in Ohio came today when the Standard Oil company announced a reduction of one and one-half cents effective tomorrow. The new price will be 20 1/2 cents a gallon at filling stations.

THE TESTIMONY IN FULL

DR. WHITE: "Well, I considered them serious enough to put him in the hospital."

ATTORNEY WHITE: Do you know how long he stayed there?

DR. WHITE: "No. I saw him the following Sunday."

ATTORNEY WHITE: "Do you know whether he was able to go to Beaumont the following Saturday?"

DR. WHITE: "No, sir, I do not."

HARRIS: "Doctor, could you state whether he got those wounds on Houston avenue or in the cell at the jail?"

DR. WHITE: "No."

JAGAN: "Could you tell how long it had been from the time you saw him till he had received the wounds?"

DR. WHITE: "No, sir, I couldn't."

Patrolman Harley Starnes, who assisted Harris arrest Brown was called to the stand.

WHITE: "Do you know about the Brown-Harris trouble?"

STARNES: "Just what happened on Houston avenue at the Bristol hotel?"

WHITE: "Tell anything you may know to show Brown unruly, will you?"

STARNES: "I was going home on a street car and noticed a crowd around the place. I got off the car and ran back, asking Harris what had happened."

He said Brown had been raising sand and wouldn't stand for being arrested. When I came up I could see the barrel of a shotgun sticking out of the screen door and when I asked Harris what the trouble was the gun was withdrawn. When we went upstairs we chased Brown to the back of the second floor and found him was under arrest. He kept insisting that we would have to get a warrant and when we had it all we would have to do was phone down and he would come up.

Twice while we were trying to take him downstairs he backed into rooms and began arguing. Finally we each caught hold of an arm and brought him downstairs.

LOGAN: Did he continue arguing in the hallway?

STARNES: I caught a street car and did not go to the station.

LOGAN: Did you see the shotgun?

STARNES: Yes.

LOGAN: What time was it?

STARNES: About 6 o'clock.

LOGAN: Where was Brown when you saw the gun?

STARNES: In the doorway with the barrel of the gun sticking out toward Harris.

LOGAN: Did you hear any of the conversation?

STARNES: No.

LOGAN: Did Brown resist arrest?

STARNES: Yes; and we chased him to the back of the house.

LOGAN: When did Harris kick Brown?

STARNES: When he went for Brown's gun.

Brown was then called to take the stand.

LOGAN: Just tell what happened all the way through.

BROWN: Well, I drove up in my car with my brother-in-law and some groceries. I took the groceries and started to go upstairs when I saw a red circular on the doorstop.

I stooped to pick it up and Harris rushed in, grabbing for the bundle of groceries I carried. "What do you want?" I asked him and he told me I'd see. "I want to search those bundles," Harris told me. I then asked him if he had a warrant and he told me he didn't need a warrant and that this was his warrant, drawing his gun from his pocket. I searched whom I please, Harris told me.

"Alright, but treat me like you would want to be treated," I told Harris.

Then I went upstairs when he finished searching me and was going to take the gun down to a locksmith to have it fixed. I thought the shells should come out the bottom where they went in and as they didn't I thought the gun was broken. Someone called to me that the officers were coming back and I set the gun down, for I didn't want the officers to think I was carrying the gun for them. As the officers entered I turned to answer a phone that was ringing. Harris, Starnes and another man came up the stairs as I turned. They told me I was under arrest and I said, alright, and opened the door for them to search.

When they brought me to the station Harris changed his automatic gun for a single action weapon. McAlfee, Thorpe and Harris, all went into the court room for a few minutes.

Then the three started toward the jail with me and Thorpe and McAlfee stopped to get a drink. I asked him, which cell he wanted me to occupy.

McAlfee said the one near the door. Harris said for me to go over on the other side and when I rounded the southeast corner of the run-around Harris hit me. As I turned around he hit me several times, kicking me when I went down. A nigger woman in the next cell wet a towel and handed it to me, telling me not to start anything with that man for he had beat another fellow in the jail the night before.

LOGAN TO ATTORNEY WHITE: "This is me going over the hospital business, as the doctor told all of that."

WHITE: Now, Mr. Brown, you said you didn't resist arrest down on Houston. What part of the house were you in?

BROWN: I was upstairs.

WHITE: Where was the shotgun at this time?

BROWN: At the head of the steps.

WHITE: Where did Harris get that gun?

BROWN: At the head of the steps, upstairs.

WHITE: Didn't Starnes and Harris each have to get hold of you by the arms, one on one side and one on the other, and make you go down to the car?

BROWN: No, sir.

WHITE: How long did you stand with the gun pointing out this way (indicating by his hands) with the gun pointing out through the screen door on to the sidewalk?

BROWN: I don't believe I stood there; I didn't stand there.

WHITE: How long did you have the gun in your hands at all at the foot of the steps?

BROWN: Not at all.

WHITE: Didn't you have the gun in your hands at all at the foot of the steps?

BROWN: No, sir.

WHITE: Then you carried the gun to the top of the steps and there is where you lost your hat. No answer.

WHITE: Wasn't your house raided just a few days previous to this incident?

BROWN: I didn't know that had any bearing on this case.

LOGAN: You are positive, Mr. Brown, you didn't make any show of resistance after you were under arrest?

BROWN: Yes, sir.

LOGAN: You are certain you saw Mr. Harris get another gun in the station?

BROWN: Yes.

LOGAN: And he retained his other one also?

BROWN: Yes.

LOGAN: How long was it before a doctor got there?

BROWN: Between one hour and a half and two hours.

LOGAN: What doctor did you call?

BROWN: Dr. White.

LOGAN: What doctor finally came?

BROWN: Dr. White.

WHITE: Didn't you also call for Dr. Crumpler?

BROWN: Yes.

WHITE: Mr. Brown, do you know of any motive or reason that Mr. Harris would want to punish you?

BROWN: No.

WHITE: What time in the evening did you carry the gun to the locksmith?

BROWN: About 6 o'clock.

WHITE: Wasn't it after six?

BROWN: If it was, my watch was wrong.

LOGAN: Were you mad when you went upstairs after the gun?

BROWN: Not mad, but I didn't feel any too good.

LOGAN: Did Mr. Harris hit at you before you went for the gun?

BROWN: I don't know.

WHITE: "Why was it you went and got the gun when you knew Mr. Harris was searching your brother-in-law in the car?"

BROWN: "I thought they had gone away."

WHITE: "Is your brother-in-law under sentence for highway robbery?"

Here Mayor Logan objected to the line of questioning and Attorney White withdrew the question stating that he was endeavoring to show the character of the man in question.

Because of the absence of three witnesses, J. T. Dolan, Juan Garcia, a Mexican and Julius Schaffer, a German, all of whom were in the city jail at the time of the incident, their statements at the preliminary trial were read into the record. They all told that Harris hit Brown, but beyond that they did not go, Dolan being unable to see the incidents leading up to the alleged attack and the foreigners not being able to understand what was said. As far as the three were able to see, they did not see Brown offer resistance.

Detective Harris was called to the stand and told the same story he has told before at other hearings. In short he stated he had gone down there and seeing the two men jump from the automobile started to search them.

"A sale of dope was secured against the wife of Brown," Harris said, "and I concluded that the dope had to get in there some way to be sold so I determined to search Brown."

While I was searching the machine, Brown slipped up stairs and I had partly finished the search of his brother.

When he came down stairs with the gun and trained it on me. "You said you were going to arrest me, now come and get me," Brown said as he pointed the gun on me.

"I watched my chance and when Brown turned his back to go up stairs I rushed him and told him to lay down the gun. He did not and I was forced to kick and strike him. When he dropped the gun he refused to go to the station but we brought him to the station."

WHITE: "After you were taking him into jail, what did Brown do to make you strike him?"

HARRIS: "He raised his hands and grabbed at my gun."

WHITE: "Did you know McAlfee was there at the time?"

HARRIS: "No, sir."

WHITE: "What were you doing when Mr. McAlfee came around where you were?"

HARRIS: I disremember.

WHITE: How many times did you kick him?

HARRIS: I don't remember exactly, once or twice, perhaps.

WHITE: Did you change guns?

HARRIS: Yes.

WHITE: What was your reason for changing guns?

HARRIS: I was afraid that if I had any trouble with Brown in jail and used my automatic it would go off and hurt someone. I had a single action gun which wasn't loaded.

WHITE: Now, Mr. Harris, didn't you take that gun in there, with the intention of beating Brown up?

HARRIS: No, sir.

LOGAN: What kind of gun did you use on Houston avenue, Mr. Harris?

HARRIS: My automatic.

LOGAN: Did you retain both guns when you went into the cell?

HARRIS: Yes, sir.

LOGAN: Did you find anything in the car when you searched it other than groceries?

HARRIS: No, sir. When Brown showed up with the gun, I lost interest in the contents of the car.

WHITE: Did you say that you kicked this man?

HARRIS: Yes, sir.

WHITE: How many times did you strike him down on Houston avenue?

HARRIS: I am not sure; twice or three times, I believe.

WHITE: Did you strike him with your gun?

HARRIS: Yes, sir.

LOGAN: Did you strike him with your gun down on Houston avenue?

HARRIS: Yes, to make him turn loose of the shot gun.

CHIEF COVINGTON: Did you ever strike a man with an automatic and have the gun discharge?

HARRIS: Yes, sir, once before.

LOGAN: Did any one get killed?

HARRIS: No, sir, but one of my friends narrowly escaped it.

Chief Covington then produced a letter from the secretary of state recommending Harris for an appointment on the police force and setting forth Harris' place of birth. The letter stated that Harris was a man of high character, cool-headed and in general a very commendable officer. He served on the Port Worth police force and was a deputy sheriff and had been in the ranger service. He had also seen service overseas with the A. E. F.

GETS LARGEST ORCHID BED

St. Louis Man Returns With Collection

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 16.—Even the natives in the South American Andes are wise that "Americans" are easy.

Consequently the rare and apparently romantic job of searching for large quantities of orchids is nothing but dull diplomacy. This is the report of G. H. Pring, horticulturist of the huge Missouri Botanical gardens, who has returned from South and Central America with 3200 orchid plants, giving the gardens here the largest collection of orchids in the world.

Pring's shipment was the only quantity imported of the rare plants into this country for six years, on account of a quarantine. They will be used in a mammoth "mass display" here this fall.

"Orchids do not lay their beauties at the feet of any passerby," Pring said. "They hide away upon trees, shut from sight, one hundred feet in the air."

"Orchid hunting is real hunting. Frequently when the plants are located, it is necessary to fell the tree to get them."

Pring's story of walking out and picking the best of the plants by the roadside were dispelled before he got to Bogota, capital of Colombia. Through American residents he bargained with Indians, who brought the orchids out. But he never saw the Indians who secured the orchids, the residents explaining that "Fifth avenue prices" would be charged anyone not known to be a resident.

The orchids secured in South America were of two principal classes, the "Cattleya Trianae," a gorgeous mauve flower with broad purple lip, and "Schobleria," another mauve flower with a broader purple lip. The cases of cattleya secured by the native took 30 days "freighting" to reach Bogota.

In Panama, Pring obtained from an orchid enthusiast 300 plants representing 100 varieties, making the largest, most diverse collection of Panamanian orchids ever brought to the United States, including one of the only two known specimens of an albino mauve orchid. As in animal life, albino types are scarce among plants.

In Jamaica, Pring secured 50 more rare orchids.

"We made 250 miles by motor a day between New York and here, and on his arrival. "But it took four days to travel 100 miles by horse over the mountains coming out of Mogota to an ocean port."

The 3200 plants will produce about $2,000,000 worth of flowers in the next year, Pring said. Each plant produces eight flowers a year, valued at $5 each. But none of them will be sold.

IT'S MESSENGER OF LOVE NOW

This machine mine, sown by the Germans and swept up by the British in the North Sea just after the war, now carries love letters across the Pacific on the Canadian liner, Empress of Australia. A dent in the left side shows how close one allied vessel came to being blown up.

THRIFT TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS NOW

Takes Place Along with Three R's

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Thrift has taken its place beside the three R's. When Chicago school children answer the first bell of the fall term on September 4 they will find a course in "How to Save" ranked in importance with reading, writing and arithmetic.

The course, which aims to be suggestive, allowing teachers to adapt to their particular needs, was prepared by Peter A. Mortenson, superintendent of schools, after a series of conferences with local bankers.

"Save your pennies" will be drilled into the minds of all pupils from the first to the eighth grades. Pamphlets will serve as texts and will supplement discussions in class, while also being used in reading and arithmetic classes. During arithmetic periods, interest and wage problems will be worked out to show the result of thrift.

First Grade Thrift.

First grade pupils are to get their first ideas of saving from reading "The Little Red Hen." Lessons in thrift will be drawn from the tale of "The Ant and the Grasshopper" for the second grades.

By the time the pupil has reached the eighth grade he will be solving problems dealing with compound interest or stock and bond investments.

Proverbs and maxims, according to Superintendent Mortenson, are important factors in impressing the young mind with ideas of saving. Some of the choice ones which the children will learn during the next school year are:

"Take care of your nickels and in time they will take care of you."

"Light purse, heavy heart."

"The penny saved never returns."

"An empty sack cannot stand upright."

"The Wrigley building was built by a man who sold gum."

"Economy makes happy homes and sound nations."

"A penny saved is a penny earned."

Bankers who are co-operating with the schools plan to open special windows in their institutions where savings of children may be deposited.

MARY BEATS IT TO HOLLYWOOD

Parents Wrangle as To Age of Actress

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—Mary Miles Minter today sought the inclusion of Hollywood to escape the glare of publicity her recent graphic tale of her love for William Desmond Taylor brought upon her.

Like the switching off of a spotlight, the former girl star cut the flow of narrative concerning her broken heart and her suit against her mother and "disappeared."

It is understood she is considering several offers to reappear in the films.

Looking for Job

Another rumor was to the effect that publicity agents looking for jobs had been bothering her with their propositions.

Whether or not Mary would appear in the "Sweet Young Girl" things of yore depended upon the outcome of a lively little controversy over her real age.

Film records show that when Mary first entered the world "tolluid" she was 16. This was in 1916.

When she lost her job in January of this year she was going strong as an "unsophisticated girl of 18."

How Old Is Mary?

Ma Minter, however, says Mary is 21. Which would not have been so had it not been for the fact that Mary's real name is Juliette Getty, daughter of John D. Getty, a gold miner on a paper in Idaho, Texas and Pa. says that if he knows anything about it, his daughter Juliette as calls herself Mary Miles Minter is 30 years old this month.

Sister Marguerite, however, described the distinctive film actress as the "ugly duckling" of the family and a cooperator with Ma Minter, whose name is Mrs. Charlotte Minter, to keep a million dollars of Mary's earnings, says Pa had better read proof on that statement again. She says she is not much more than thirty herself.

Neither Mrs. Getty nor Mabel Normand, her sister Margaret would fill in for Mary during the latter's retirement from the limelight.

YOUTHS ADOPT OUTDOOR SPORTS STREET FLIRTATIONS CEASE WHEN

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 16.—"Beauty parading" and idle street flirtations, heritage of the Spanish colonial days, are becoming extinct pastimes in Argentina. The devotion given by Argentine youth to outdoor sports in the last decade, first by the young men and now in growing measure by the young women is held accountable for the change.

Twenty-five years ago the young men of Buenos Aires, stiffly attired in black, with high poke collars and French patent leather shoes, devoted their holiday and Sunday afternoons to strolling along the avenues or loitering on street corners, with an eye out, mainly, for pretty girls. The girls, decked out with the knowledge that they were to be admired, devoted the same afternoons to "coche" riding, forming a "beauty parade" as the vehicles drew them along the avenues past the groups of young men with whom they might exchange smiles and flirtatious glances. This was about all the outdoor exercise Argentine young folk took in those days, says the older generation.

Today in Buenos Aires there is hardly a vacant lot on a Saturday, Sunday or holiday afternoon that is not the scene of a football game. Tennis matches are in progress on hundreds of courts, golf balls soar over the fairway of eight different courses, swift racing carts cleave the waters of the River Lujan, propelled by sunburned arms, on running tracks young men in spiked shoes seek to make new records in the 100 meter dash, the hurdles and like events, swimming, basketball and boxing have numerous devotees, while young men of wealth indulge in polo and crack yacht races on the River Plate. The formal Sunday afternoon black of a generation ago has been succeeded by light tweeds, homespun, flannels and sport clothes. The young men have less time to flirt.

While the young women have not entirely abandoned the old Spanish custom of "beauty parading" for a semblance of it can be seen along the Calle Florida at the noon hour on

New Coat Frock Desirable For Summer and Autumn

Characteristic of the coat dress that sets in a glass by itself is that it shall be sufficiently like a dress in fit and to be worn directly over a slip or petticoat, while it must be like a coat in general appearance to make it easily suitable to wear in the street without any other wrap. The conservative woman who has grown up with the frock that is not quite good form to appear in city streets without some sort of wrap has no hesitancy to wear the coat thinks of the coat frock as a desirable for summer and autumn. This year one finds it has excellent possibilities as an all-weather adjunct of the wardrobe when made of linen or other material it is as comfortable as any other sort of frock.

Every linen is an excellent medium for a warm-weather coat dress and the smartest models of the sort this summer shows a side close to the left, scant-tied skirt and waistline. There is a single ruffle with the long slightly flaring skirt finished with lace and buttons. Two large pearl buttons, one on the left and the other just beneath the ruffle, effect the closing.

The de chine, which at first might seem too light a fabric for the coat frock, has in fact been used in several charming frocks. Sometimes the de chine is used with the crepe de chine long, fairly close sleeves that to be an essential of the coat at present are found here. A with plaited ruffle of white forming a frill on the right side of the bodice and the side of the skirt. Fabrics that have more smart than popular this summer, are well adapted to the coat frock for wear on moderate in summer. The satin coat especially makes an excellent to wear when motoring, owing to dust-shedding properties. The red scarf collar further recommends the motif of a coat frock by blue satin embroidered rather in pastel colorings.

the coat frock is an excellent substitute for the suit. The coat frock has many of the good points of the suit and the distinct advantage that it is easier to put on. The smartly tailored suit has been heralded for autumn and we are glad that there will be a revival of interest in all sorts of suit accessories, scarves, gloves, waistcoats that go to give the severe suit and feminine charm. The coat frock really is as good a medium as any for the necessities of the suit and is a more convenient one.

Walking forward, velvet loom large, will undoubtedly be the medium for cake dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the honoree.

These enjoying this birthday celebration in addition to Lydia, were: Roselle Covington, Desmarie Morel, Mary Katherine Knight, Nelbeth Gardner, Lucille McCray, Mary Louise McCray, Alice Elaine Milburn, Melvin Smith, Leonard Knight, Edna Matthews, Lora Matthews and Mrs. E. W. Matthews.

MRS. E. B. SUTHERLIN AND little daughter, Wanda, left last night for Indianapolis, Ind., where she will visit with friends and relatives. They will return home in about a month and will be accompanied by Maurine Sutherland who has been spending the summer there.

MRS. LLOYD ELDRIDGE, 1815 Ninth St., is expected to return home this evening from Abbeville, where she has been spending the past six weeks with her mother.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY P. Foote and nephew Roland Moyer returned from a two weeks' vacation trip to Franklin, Bryan and other Texas points.

TENTATIVE PLANS FOR THE Beaumont District Christian Endeavor convention which will be held in Beaumont, September 28-30 were made at the special called meeting of the Beaumont District Christian Endeavor council last evening at the First Presbyterian church in Beaumont. The convention was scheduled to be held in Silsbee but on account of conflicting events in that place the convention place was changed to Beaumont.

Registration quotas were assigned to various societies last evening. Port Arthur's quota being 25. The registration fee will be 50 cents for seniors and intermediates and 25 cents for juniors. Flags will be awarded to the societies bringing in their quota before September 20, according to Miss Esther Cramton of this city.

vice president of the council. Convention committees were appointed and plans are being perfected to make the Beaumont council one of the most successful in the district. Port Arthur Endeavorers are planning to attend the convention in large numbers. Several local endeavors will deliver

Physical Culture Expert Will Tell News Women Readers How to Stay Young

NOTE: This is to introduce you to Miss Anna Dolan, one of the country's most famous physical culture experts. She has been keeping thousands of women young and healthy by her system of exercises. She has consented to tell you how to maintain your youth and beauty by the same methods, through a series of five lessons in The News. The first of these lessons will be published here tomorrow.

By MARIAN HALE, Writer for NEA Service.
NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—One of Old Age's most formidable enemies today is Anna Dolan, titan-haired, Irish and determined, who is teaching thousands of women how to stay young and healthy.

Her physical culture studio in New York is one place where you are sure to see celebrities—beauties of the stage and screen who can't afford to show their years, society women who could afford to but won't, and business and professional women who are too clever to let anything outwit them—all harning her secrets of health and beauty.

"Today the woman of 40 who is not as lithe of figure and as radiant of complexion as she was at 20 is neglecting the opportunity of living in this enlightened age," Miss Dolan says.

"Any woman will naturally protect herself from the inroads of time if she preserves her health," she continues. "When you see your skin becoming sallow and wrinkled, when sagging muscles and increasing flesh destroy the symmetry of the figure, it is only nature's way of warning you that your youth is dying and must be revived."

"Fading beauty is dying tissue, and scientists have proved that as the life-giving cells of the body are destroyed, physical care and hygienic living can restore them."

"We must supply this new energy to our vital forces. We must aid nature in restoring perfect harmony so that the rich, life-giving blood can renew our strength and vitality and restore the youthful contour of face and figure through the glow of perfect health."

Many women make the mistake of giving all their care to their faces, Miss Dolan finds, forgetting that a stolid figure, a heavy tread, and a walk that has lost its youthful spring flaunt age as much or more than gray hair and wrinkles.

"So why preserve merely surface beauty when the real symbol of youth, the slight girlish figure, becomes a mass of flabby, fatty tissue?" she asks. "Keep up your joy in life and let others notice it. Be 100 per cent efficient instead of 50."

Miss Anna Dolan.

THE REGULAR MEETING OF the Stitches club will be held next Thursday afternoon with Mrs. W. E. Follette at her home 1906 Ninth street.

MRS. H. K. DEASON WILL OPEN a kindergarten primary class September 17 in the gymnasium room of the First Methodist church, corner Lakeshore and Stillwell boulevards. Mrs. Deason is a graduate of the Penitentiary Froebel Teacher's college in Chicago. She has had five years experience in social service, chautauqua and public school work and holds a permanent teaching certificate. Limited enrollment, classes are now being formed. Any one desiring further information can call phone 187.

MRS. GEO. N. POHL LEFT LAST night for Pittsburg, Pa., where she will visit with relatives and friends until October 1 when she will be joined by Mr. Pohl, and will spend a month in New York.

MRS. J. A. LEAVINS OF Mobile, Ala., returned last evening to her home after a very pleasant visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Allen and other relatives.

MRS. S. E. BONEY RETURNED yesterday from Beaumont, Texas, where she visited with her mother, Mrs. B. V. Pattison.

MISS ELAINE SHEWMAN OF Cincinnati, Ohio, is the attractive house guest of Miss Beulah Foy Bledsoe. Numerous parties are being planned in Miss Shewmans honor by members of the younger set.

Quaker Puffed Wheat

Quaker Puffed Wheat is the greatest dish that you can serve. It is whole wheat steam exploded. The grains are puffed 8 times normal size—no airy, fluffy morsels. And the food cells are broken for easy digestion.

Whole wheat supplies 12 minerals which growing children must have. Also their need of bran. And milk is rich in all three vitamins.

People need these elements in plenty. Millions suffer for their lack. Make sure they get them daily by serving them in this delightful way.

Quaker Puffed Rice is rice grains puffed in like way. Each fluffy grain is a food confection. Breakfast never brings a cereal daintier than Quaker Puffed Rice. Let no day pass this summer without these supreme foods.

REAR DELIVER

Results of Parley To Be Published

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—American recognition of Mexico now is only a matter of days.

With the so-called "recognition conference" in Mexico City ended satisfactorily, simultaneous announcements will be made soon in Washington and the Mexican capital of the results of the parley between the American and Mexican commissioners.

Announcements are expected to constitute recognition or at least the final step towards recognition of the Obregon government.

Points of Agreement.
Briefly and in its main points the agreement between the United States and Mexico, provides for:

1. A guarantee by Mexico pending a final and definite step by its congress that the famous article 27 of the Carranza constitution is not to be interpreted retroactively so as to allow in any way for confiscation of American properties in Mexico.

This has been one of the traditional disputes between the American and Mexican governments. The so-called Carranza constitution provided that all sub soil rights are vested in the nation and on this provision Mexico has made several moves toward confiscating American oil properties.

2. An agreement by Mexico satisfactorily to compensate American owners for agrarian lands confiscated under the policies of President Obregon for division of lands among the Mexican people.

The Third Point.
Mexico heretofore has offered to pay for these lands with Mexican bonds which have no marketable value.

3. The setting up of two claims commissions, one to settle American claims against Mexico for damages suffered during revolutions and such events and other to plan the details of the methods of disposing of American claims against Mexico for confiscation of agrarian lands without proper payment.

RANGER JUDGES RODEO IN EAST

Little Old New York to Get Glimpse of Texas Ranger

The romance that has always clung to Texas rangers since the day when they made law by the swiftness of their shooting hand is to be carried to stand New York. It will go in the person of Captain Tom Hickman, who personified the legends of the Texas rangers of other days.

Sufficiently tall to be picturesque white haired, booted and spurred, his two old style "Colts" peeping above his chaps, his puny pony answering every call to hand or knee, Captain Hickman will be the judge in the rodeo that begins at the Yankee stadium, Aug. 15.

It will be the duty of Captain Hickman to judge every contest, all of which will be under the most stringent rules that ever governed a rodeo.

Text Book Ruling Causes Confusion

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 16.—Advice on what steps are necessary and proper in the textbook controversy in view of the decision handed down by Federal Judge Duffell West has been sought by S. M. S. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction from the attorney general. All contracts expire on old books on September 1. "It will require approximately $50,000 to purchase necessary books."

While not a movie star yet, a St. Louis woman is suing both of her husbands for divorce.

Fighting Editor

Carl C. Moore.

Even a judge can overstep his bounds. Governor Hinkle of New Mexico declared, as he pardoned Carl C. Moore, Albuquerque editor, fined heavily and sentenced to two years in prison by Judge David Leahy for alleged contempt of court. Moore criticized the judge's actions in some cases. His case attracted nationwide attention.

FATHER KIDNAPS OWN DAUGHTER

Mother Denied Child by Judge

SPEARVILLE, Kans., Aug. 16.—Authorities throughout the southwest today were watching for Dr. L. A. Marty, Kansas City physician, who is alleged to have kidnapped his own child from the custody of his divorced wife here.

J. J. Daniel, a Hutchinson, Kansas, detective, accused shortly after the kidnapping, confessed to police here that he assisted the physician in the abduction.

Marguerite, the 8-year-old child by Dr. Marty's third marriage, was awarded to him in divorce proceedings in Kansas City, but before he could obtain possession of the child, Mrs. Marty disappeared.

She had been living here three months. The child was playing with dolls in a yard when Dr. Marty and Daniel drove by, seized the child and sped away. Daniel drove to a point three miles outside the city, where a woman was waiting in another car. The doctor, with the child, joined her according to Daniel's story, and no trace has been found since.

POLICE SEIZE A BIG BOOZE HAUL

Fashionable Dallas Home Is Raided: 380 Quarts Found

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 16.—As the result of a raid by city detectives Saturday night at a fashionable home in one of the exclusive districts of the city, when more than 380 quarts of highest grade bonded whiskey, brandy, alcohol and gin were confiscated, a complaint was filed against Ben Whitaker, alleged owner of the home, 2725 Park Row, a large illegal possession of intoxicating liquors.

Searching the premises the raiding squad was about to give up when one of their number tapped a wall between the servants' quarters and garage. When the wall was cut through the large store of illicit liquors was found.

Tennis Players Enter Closing Rounds on Forest Hills

No Upset Produced In Play Yesterday In Women's Net Title

Four Matches On Today's Card; Helen Wells Still Stands Out As Possible Title Winner; Molla Mallory Plays Again Today.

By HENRY L. FARRELL

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Without having produced anything that could approach an upset, the national women's championships went into the round before the semi-finals today with three British and five American stars surviving.

Four matches on today's card in singles will produce four losers after what should be the best and most exciting tennis of the week.

Miss Helen Wells, the 17-year-old California girl, who has had the crowd completely behind her since she started play, is booked for the feature match of the day with Miss Kathleen McKane, the former champion of England and the best player in Britain.

The California girl defeated Miss McKane in one of the single matches of the Wimbledon cup tournament and since then she has been playing superb tennis. Victory today will put her in the semi-final round with the chances good that she will meet Mrs. Molla Mallory, the American champion, in the final round for the championship.

So far in the championship matches the most absorbing topic of discussion has been the California girl's chances of becoming the next champion and if public wishes could roam her she would be a catch for the title.

Mrs. Mallory plays against Miss Helen Hooker, the Greenwich girl, who advanced through the fourth round when Mrs. Geraldine Beaumont, one of the best British players, was forced through illness to forfeit. Mrs. Hooker is the tenth ranking player among the Americans and she has hardly hope to do much against the American champion.

Mrs. Leslie Bancroft, the left-handed star from Boston, and the second ranking player, will meet Mrs. R. C. Clayton, the English covered court champion, and she may have the battle of her life to survive.

Mrs. B. C. Cover, the third ranking British player, will oppose Miss Eleanor Goss, the New York girl, who has been playing some very good tennis.

SCULLERS ARE READY TO RACE

"Youngsters" 70 Years Old, Send Challenge

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 16.—They are the youngsters, the four-year-olds, the youngsters, Fred Plaisant and James H. Reilly.

But that doesn't mean a thing in their sculler lives.

Why, don't you know, they're getting ready for their annual sculling race. They're going to show up some of these mere babies like Walter Hoover, Jack Kelly, and Milt Belyea.

Plaisant, of course, is a sculler's sculler. He's got to win again. Remember how he won a mile and a quarter on the Schuyler river last year in just 15 minutes and 55 seconds, edging Kelly out by only a very narrow margin.

But he'll wait until he's 70. There's plenty of time for that. He's got to get even and a double measure of it for his rotten luck in 1922.

A good many folks admit Plaisant is the better sculler. He's quite a bit younger, they say. Fred's only 66.

All this goes up, however, does not mean Reilly one particle. Why, a sculler's nature at 70, then at 75, and possesses more strength and endurance. So this Plaisant doesn't need to go around bragging so much.

Again, it was Plaisant who issued the challenge. And it included Coach Jim Tom Eick, veteran Syracuse rowing coach—in fact, any boy of 70 or more who thought he could get the best of Fred Plaisant. But Jim has not replied yet.

Probably he'll turn down the bid just like he did last year. He doesn't care for such strenuous exercise right now.

Details as to the date and place of this year's Plaisant-Reilly classic haven't been worked out yet. But Fred and Jim promise to keep their friends well informed on all developments.

Fifty years ago Plaisant and Reilly were champions. Ever since they have kept in condition by a little pug and flog every summer.

Father Time just does not seem to be able to get the best of them.

BEARS PASTE LEFTY

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 16.—Getting to Lefty Graham for 20 safe hits, San Antonio won the third straight game from Galveston, 16 to 4.

Phil Todd hit safely in six times to bat. For the second time this week the bases have been cleared by a single. Today's drive in home, Stearns and Gallagher by a single to center, Kohlhecker and Whitman hit home runs. Morrison was never in great danger.

Score by innings: Galveston 110 100 100-4 8 0 San Antonio 020 031 000-16 20 1 Graham and Witter; Morrison and Kohlhecker.

MUSCALUNGE, PIKE, FIGHTERS

How to Catch Fools of Fresh Water

By MORRIS ACKERMAN

A grass-pike and his vicious companion of the weeds, the muscalunge are a brilliant pair of dumbbells when you come to think about it. A grass-pike will take a surface lure trolling a hundred feet or more behind a canoe, motorboat or skiff—while the whole time the passing of the craft, the long line showing a white streak in the water and finally the whirling treble-hooked spoon are unfolded to the fish—and he grabs the spoon just the same.

You troll a few inches deeper and you nail both "lunge" and pike, or you might snare both on the surface. The thing is that a grass-pike and a muscalunge will take a piece of tin or a hook of wood trolling behind a boat when nature should have blessed them both with better sense.

They are boneheads of the first water.

A wise old bird I know tells the world that the way to catch game fish is to trick 'em—to shoot 'em something that looks good to eat fast and accurate and above all to have the lure reeling back toward you "when it hits the water."

This is certainly true with speckled trout and holds in the majority of cases with large and small-mouth black bass, but with grass-pike and muscalunge it doesn't mean anything. Of course, a grass-pike may not be considered a game fish, but surely a muscalunge comes in the front rank as a fighting fish.

It was only yesterday my young son was casting along the edge of a weed-bed. He got a backfish, worked out the tangle, started to reel in—and BAM!

That's a grass-pike for you, and I've seen muskies do the same thing. Seldom, indeed, does a bass do that. It's an advantage that the poor easter has with "lunge" and pike fishing, however. I'm not going to tell you how to catch muscalunge. I only suggest that you include in your "lunge" tackle a brace or so of phantom minnows rigged with bronze snelled hooks.

I know the treble-hook feathered trolling spoon is the accepted lure, both by the fish and the fisherman, but, in my opinion, the phantom is the "female of the species." A 25-pound will hold a 55-pound fish. So will a 15-pound line, if you don't try to "hook" 'em. When a "lunge" of size decides to reach for the lure, it's up to you to keep sharp and out of the line. That's your first and last business. The rest of the battle takes care of itself.

Musky fishing reminds me some of grizzly hunting. You start out fishing for shiners and your ultimate ambition is muscalunge, which you finally realize. A grizzly has an independent air about him—sort of if you want to know who run things around this joint common something. That's the way with lunge.

In his water he's boss and when he gets afloat of a flock of gang hooks he just starts right in to show you how he conducts affairs in his neck of the woods. There are plenty of muscalunge left in many states and Eastern Canada.

Texacos Cut Gulf's Lead

Half Game in Race for YMBL Flag Wednesday

Priesterites Set Up New Record and Score Every Frame on Island in Clash That Has 12-2 Finale; Corley Hurts 3-Hit Battle

By BILL ARCHER

Nookie Priester's Texaco Stars set up a new record for the City League yesterday afternoon on Lakeshore Diamond when they successfully executed the trick of scoring in every inning of their game against the Islanders. They swamped the Island contingent and cut the Gulf's lead half a game when they copped the clash, 12 to 2.

Five runs in the second settled the issue, after the Islanders had knotted the count 1-1 in the opener; and the rest of the way it was slaughter.

Six hits added to nine errors made at the hands of Island fielders, in and out, decided the ball game and helped the Texacos out in their standing.

Corley, lanky first sacker who has exhibited considerable stuff on the field this season at that position, was nominated to the surprise of fandom to turn the twirling trick against the Islander squad, and Corley turned the hits that failed to get them over a pair of runs.

Meanwhile, Connolly and Pete Karnaky were meeting a sad fate in the box, the former being sent to the showers in the fourth, while the port-side was permitted to remain to the finish. The hits were equally divided on Karnaky and Connolly. Priester's proteges clearing both moundsmen for three bingles each.

Priester lost the toss in the five-frame contest, but his colleagues exhibited intentions of winning in the first period when Billy Palmer scored as the result of errors. Two walks, two hits, a batter hit with a pitched ball and one error netted five tallies in the second frame from the Texacos; they made three runs in the third, one in the fourth and put the game on ice in their half of the fifth when two more runners, Priester and Burch, crossed the plate on errors and a double delivered by Burch.

Meanwhile, Corley was nipped for three hits, a run in the first round and one in the last that settled the game.

These drew the fur-lined wrist watch for the day's hitting when, in four times up, he was issued a pass once, hit with a pitched ball once and collected a pair of hits for the other two trips. Thus he was shown a pair of times at bat, with a run and two hits to his credit.

Corley helped win his own game with two neat singles in his three times up, while Romero and Burch collected the other two hits the Texacos were credited with.

Black, first baseman of the Island squad, vied with Hase for honors in the game, and was issued a pair of bingles himself in two times at bat. He faced the pitcher three times during the contest, but Corley issued him a pass to first on his first trip. The other Island hit went to Corley.

The nine errors made by the Islanders constituted the most telling factor in the clash.

This afternoon, the race for the YMBL pennant, a large flag measuring 18 by 24 inches and bearing the insignia "City League Champions, 1933," will be continued when the Gulfies and Citizens tangle up again.

On the other hand, by winning two more of her remaining games, the Gulf will clinch the pennant and settle the argument finally.

The City, to win the pennant, would "thru" to first place through the Texas defeating the Gulf twice, the Gulf losing two other games, and the City defeating the Texacos at least two of their three remaining games.

The Texacos, to win the pennant, must win five games straight. There's rare, fans, in a nut-shell.

THE GULF can lose three games and still retain the League leadership; four games, one being to the Texas Company, would end the leaders from their first position, giving either the Texacos or the Citizens a chance at first place and the flag.

This rather unusual happening is governed by section 3 of rule 17, which states if a ball at rest be displaced by any agency, outside the match, except wind, the player shall throw the ball as near as possible to where it lay without penalty. In this case the cow must be considered an outside agency. If the ball has been rendered unfit for play because the cow trampled on it, the player has a right to drop another ball.

Players find their balls resting in a hazard within a club length of each other. Has the player who is further from the hole the right to have his opponent lift his ball before he plays his next shot?

When the balls lie within a club length of each other through the green or in a hazard, the ball lying nearer to the hole may, at the option of either the player or the opponent, be lifted until the other ball is played, and shall then be replaced as near as possible to the place where it lay.

Workmen making some repairs on the fairway have removed their coats which are lying on the ground near the section under repair. Player drives the ball from the tee and it comes to rest in the pocket of one of the workmen's coat. One player contended that the ball must be driven from the pocket, the location of it being apparent, unless the other player wanted to lift the ball and suffer a stroke penalty. The player who had driven the ball from the tee insisted that he had a right to lift the ball and drop it without penalty. Who is right?

The player has a perfect right to lift the ball from the pocket of the coat and drop it without penalty. The rule covering this phase of play says: "A ball lying on or touching clothes on ground under repair may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

My baby has disassembled out of his crib.

"Please go out and count noses," said King Shookums to Nick. "Go out and count all the Pee Wees, and see if they are here, will you?"

So out went Nick with a big horn. "Foot, foot, foot!" he blew. "Are all the noses here? Will everyone please to count his nose and tell me if anybody is missing?"

Suddenly Mrs. Upsedaisy rushed out and grabbed him. "My baby has disappeared out of his crib," she screamed. "And I can't count his nose because it went with him. My darling Topsy Upsedaisy! He's gone! Kidnapped! Oh, what'll I do?" And the little Pee Wee lady wrung her hands something awful.

"What did he look like?" asked Nick, stopping his tooty tooting, and taking out his book and looking for a clue. "I'll take his description so we can look for him."

"Pink nose," said Mrs. Upsedaisy quickly.

"Nose pink?" wrote Nick.

"Bald head," said Mrs. Upsedaisy.

"Head bald?" wrote Nick.

"Two teeth!" said Mrs. Upsedaisy.

"Teeth two!" wrote Nick.

"Round and fat," said Mrs. Upsedaisy.

"Fat and round," wrote Nick.

"Say," said Mrs. Upsedaisy indignantly. "You're getting him upside down. He isn't upside down."

"Not upside down!" wrote Nick.

"Goodness, you must be crazy," cried the little Pee Wee lady. "That's no way to find a baby."

"Is this your baby?" cried Nancy rushing in. "Mrs. Robin thought he was a bag and picked him up by mistake."

"Oh, the horrid thing!" screamed Upsy's mother. "How awful!"

"Foot, foot, foot!" went Nick on his horn as he strutted back to King Shookums.

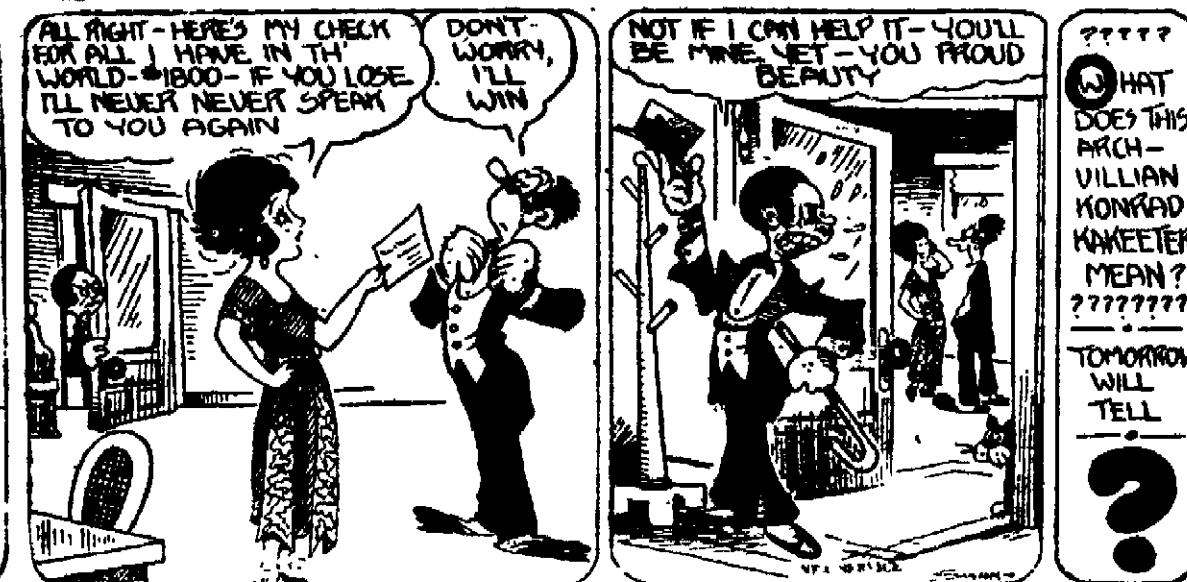

"All noses safe and sound!" he reported. "Everybody safe in Pee Wee Land."

Two Carloads Arrive in Port Arthur

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—America has become a nation on wheels, but it is paying for the national joy ride in damages that is more than money.

Every time a clock hand tolls off 50 minutes, some person is killed in an automobile accident. With the same monotonous regularity, every other stroke of the second hand marks a fresh bandage or a hospital bed for an accident victim.

These figures are derived from sources allied with the automobile industry, among them the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which although admitting the fatalities, points to the staggering number of motor vehicles in the country and the part they are playing in the development of the life of the nation.

Deaths in 25 Years

For the first time in 25 years since the automobile made its way down a line of new trails, people the entire nation generally have been lifted from the ground and is riding.

But never before have so many casualties from motor vehicles been reported. Some are due to the wild-eyed joy riders who end in ditches and against the banks of paved highways.

Arrival of two car loads of machinery and equipment for the Cascade Laundry coming in Port Arthur between September 17 and October 1 and three more car loads en route to this city, bringing the remaining machinery and equipment, is announced today by S. H. Dean, manager.

The expenditure of the laundry company on its Port Arthur plant, which will be located at the corner of Sixth street and Fort Worth avenue, represents approximately $60,000, Dean said. About 40 men and women will be employed.

W. A. Johnson, a Galveston laundry man, secretary and treasurer of the Texas State Laundrymen's association, and president of the Cascade Laundry company of this city, was in Port Arthur Wednesday in the interests of the new plant which is to be opened here.

Each day of the new laundry pointed out by Dean will be returning all laundry within 36 hours after it is given to them, individual washing which eliminates laundry marks, and nine different washing and cleaning services. A fleet of white trucks also will be operated.

stinger above the eye of a man, caused him to release the wheel. The car crashed into a telephone pole and carried two persons to death.

Death List Mounts

Despite the efforts at prevention, such as safety berths, and safety drivers, the toll of road and injury deaths, mounted steadily. Last year, 14,000 persons were lowered into graves after automobile smashups. This year the figure will not be less than 15,000 and probably it will be more. In 1914 the toll was 4,251. Last year, insurance estimates had it, the injured reached 1,500,000. This year, with the growing number of accidents, the injured will total 1,700,000.

Approximately one-fifteenth of the mounting road casualties occur in two of the big cities, New York and Chicago, which represent 75 per cent
